

Kajal Gupta reveals how MMU Mullana gave her the exposure that shaped her career and personality

While Engineering was once considered to be the domain for men, many young women are thriving in the field today. However, the fact remains that often female candidates have their unique criteria when choosing an engineering college. For example, Kajal Gupta, student of Batch 2016 at MMU Mullana, had safety as a top priority when she chose MMU Mullana. Today, she is glad that her decision paid off. Not only was she able to study in a safe environment, but she was also molded as a professional, which bagged her placement with Infosys, Hyderabad as a Systems Engineer.

According to Kajal, studying at MMU Mullana has been a holistic learning experience because it has groomed her personality as well. She admits that she owes her social skills to the course she opted for as it offered her several opportunities to participate in activities and events. “The faculty team played their part in boosting our academic skills as well as the extracurricular,” she says. “They have been our mentors and guides. We would always find someone to talk to when we needed it the most and that was a big help.”

There might be those who struggle with strict class timings and attendance, but Kajal believes that it was for the good of the students because their studies never suffered. She also adds that the focused learning environment at MMU Mullana is enhanced by the state of the art facilities. “There was never any dearth of equipment in the lab,” she tells us. “You will find everything you need here to put your learning into practice and be prepared for industry challenges. In addition, things never get boring as there are plenty of avenues to keep you rejuvenated.”

Kajal mentions interpersonal skills and confidence to express herself as the most important takeaways from her program. She relies on these qualities in her professional life and has sound advice for her juniors at the college: “Engineering graduates need to have patience for the real world. You should make the most of every opportunity out there without any prejudices. It’s not the marks you get but your knowledge that will take you to your goals. MMU Mullana gives you the best platform to launch your careers.”

That’s certainly happened for Kajal who is raring to go in her professional life. Her journey might have begun last year but she knows the stepping stone was paved the day she walked on the MMU Mullana campus. She is filled with emotions as she talks about her memories during the four years at the institute. In her concluding words, she expresses gratitude for her college and reflects on the good times on campus. “I miss being in the classroom, in the lab with my friends. I miss hanging out on campus,” she says. “Going to SHRM, Gurgaon as a college representative was the most memorable moment because you don’t get that kind of exposure often.”
