ABOUT THE CONFERENCE (ICRAAS-2024)

After the grand success of ICRAAS-2022, this is the second conference of the series. This conference aims to provide opportunities for the delegates to exchange new ideas and their experiences face to face, establish research relations, and find global partners for future expertise.

People need clean air to breathe, fresh water to drink, and places to live that are free of toxic substances and hazards. Therefore, human well-being is inextricably linked to environmental health. Environmental sustainability is responsible for conserving natural resources and protecting global ecosystems for current and future health and well-being. However, rapid population growth has resulted in increased farming, which increases greenhouse gas emissions and deforestation. Because of industrial and technological advancements, we require more power than ever before. Yet our planet is reaching a breaking point. We are beginning to see the consequences of global warming on ecosystems and communities. The aim of the conference is to provide a platform for working professionals, academicians, related industry people, field engineers, researchers, and students to share their experiences and knowledge related to environmental pollution control and sustainable development.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

- The main objectives of ICRAAS-2024 are to encourage scientific exercises for the benefit of participants and to minimize the hurdles of experimental research.
- One of the goals of ICRAAS-2024 is to give specialists a world-class stage to disseminate research findings by using innovative means of poster and oral presentations. This will tremendously benefit young researchers and scholars participating in the event.
- The ICRAAS-2024 is aimed to be one of the most comprehensive professional conferences of its kind in the world. It has been specifically designed to present technical and other assistance to intensify research and development enterprises, by proclaiming high-quality research findings, as well as research papers/articles.
